

Coram Deo
Exercises in Interiority

In progress, London: Rowman & Littlefield

Steven DeLay
Wake Forest University

What is it to live in the presence of God, to recognize that our most intimate mode of existence is not one of being-in-the-world? In six phenomenological studies surmounting the division between philosophy and theology, this book takes up that question, exploring in turn our relation to others, the world, and ourselves.

Chapter One

The Interlacement of Self and God

Chapter Two

What is the Problem of Intersubjectivity?

Chapter Three

The Vanity of Authenticity

Chapter Four

Metaphysics and Immortality

Chapter Five

Nietzsche and the Genealogy of a Lie

Chapter Six

The Light that Lights Every Man